14. The sources of the information shall have the right to enforce the provisions of this Agreement.
15. If any provision of the Agreement is found by any court or administrative body of competent jurisdiction to be wholly or partly illegal, invalid, void, voidable, unenforceable or unreasonable, it will, to the extent of such illegality, invalidity, voidness, voidability, unenforceability or unreasonableness, be deemed severable and the remainder of the Agreement will persist.

PRIVACY AND COOKIE POLICY

In general you may browse this website without providing any personal information. Information may be collected on an aggregate basis, as you and others browse this website, but this is not used to identify you in any way. If you want to interact with the website owner, you may be asked to provide some personal information.

This website contains links to other sites. The owner is not responsible for the privacy practices of such other sites. This Privacy Statement applies solely to information collected by this site.

In common with most website, cookies might be used to speed up navigation through the web site. A cookie is a piece of encoded information that is sent from the web site and stored in your computer's memory. This piece of information identifies who you are and therefore avoids the time-consuming process of checking your details against the user database each time a new page is requested. The web-server may log IP addresses, or the location of your computer on the Internet, for systems administration and troubleshooting purposes.

All changes to this Privacy Statement will be posted here. Please visit this page regularly to stay up to date. Your continued use of the site following changes to the Privacy Statement will indicate your acceptance of them.

If have any questions on this statement, please contact the website owner.
